

RADIATION CONTROLLING SOUND SYSTEM

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a radiation controlling sound system mainly used during exhibition visits. The present invention mainly consists of a radiation projector for code projecting, a radiation receiver as well as an automatic sound system for receiving codes, and a recording system for recording of different codes. Hence, the present invention is very convenient for exhibition visits as visitors can immediately listen to voice explanation while looking at an object.